J-2 WORK AUTHORIZATION

WHAT IT IS: J-2 dependents may apply for work authorization through the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Service. You will receive a work card also called an EAD (Employment Authorization Document). It may take 3 months to receive this card in the mail after you apply. Once you get the card, you may use it to work for any employer in the U.S. for any amount of hours from the start date to the end date listed on the card. You will have to apply for a renewal of the work card at least 3 months before the end date of your first work card in order to maintain continuous work authorization.

REQUIREMENT: It is a requirement for J-2 work authorization that the J-1 primary visa holder can demonstrate that there is enough money to support the family without needing the potential income of the J-2. In this packet we include a sample letter to show you how to address this issue.

J-2 EMPLOYMENT AUTHORIZATION EXTENSION

To be able to continue work, you need to apply for an extension of your work permission at least 3 months before it expires. If your work permission expires at the same time as the J-1 visitor’s program, the J-1 visa holder should apply for a program extension before the extension of your employment authorization.

How to Apply
To apply for the extension, send all the documents and forms listed on page one. Don’t forget to send the personal check or money order payable to USCIS.

The New EAD
When you receive your new EAD, you should show it to your employer so that they can update your I-9 Form (Employment Eligibility Verification). For non-academic positions at Cornell, your hiring department will update the I-9. For academic positions at Cornell, the ISSO will update the I-9.

Note:
If Cornell is not your visa program sponsor:
J-1 visa holders whose visa sponsor is not Cornell University (i.e. the DS-2019 was issued by IIE, Department of State or another sponsor but NOT Cornell) must be sure to obtain the new form DS-2019 from their sponsor 2 to 3 months before the end date of the current form.

Tax
J-2 dependents are subject to Social Security taxes, federal income taxes, and sometimes state income taxes (See IRS publication 519, United States Tax Guide for Aliens).
Dear Officer:

I would like to apply for J-2 work authorization.

My J-1 spouse receives [annual funding amount] in annual financial support, including $42,000 from [source], and $5600 in personal funds. Of this, $30,000 goes to the University for tuition and fees, and a total of about $1200 for the year is withheld from his/her assistantship stipend checks for income tax. In addition we pay, $1650 each year in health insurance. That leaves $14,750, or just over $1200 per month for living expenses. Our monthly budget is as follows:

$600  Rent and utilities (electric, gas, telephone, cable TV)
$400  Food
$200  Miscellaneous (clothing, recreational, personal, transportation)
$1200 Total

As this budget shows, we have enough to live modestly, but there are no funds left for expenses that are not essential. For example, while in the United States, I would like to take a casual course in English for international spouses, which would cost about $50 in additional transportation costs, and we can afford that expense only if I work [replace the previous sentence with your own reason]. I therefore hope that you will approve my request.

I understand that none of my earnings may be used for the support of my J-1 spouse.

Sincerely,

[Your signature]

May photos be taken with a digital camera?
If the digital camera has sufficient resolution — capable of capturing and storing images with 1 million pixels (megapixels) or more — it can be used to take the photos. However, printing of digital images is best done by professional photography processing labs because many off-the-shelf digital printers cannot achieve the image-quality required for passport and visa photographs. In any case, the image-quality criteria, described on this website, must be met in the submitted conventional film photo and/or the digital image printed photo.
